

Graduate Student Assistantship Opportunities

The Transportation Engineering and Logistics Program in the Department of Civil and Environmental Engineering (CEE) at Rutgers University aims at leading the research in multimodal freight and passenger transportation planning, management, operations and safety. Example research topics include but are not limited to: intermodal freight, logistics systems analysis, transportation safety (rail, highway and maritime), network modeling and infrastructure management. We encourage and welcome the best talents to join us as graduate research assistants for M.S. or Ph.D. degrees, contributing to high-impact research.

Qualifications:

- Major in Transportation Engineering, Civil Engineering, Industrial Engineering, Statistics, Mathematics, Computer Science or related areas
- Experience in probability, statistics, operations research, optimization or computer programming is preferred but not required

Benefits:

- Full tuition waiver, full stipend and other related university benefits
- Opportunities to work with faculty in the CEE and national transportation research center (CAIT) at Rutgers, on high-profile projects funded by government and private agencies
- Financial support to attend conferences to present research and interact with global researchers and industry professionals
- Career opportunities in research institutions, logistics companies and consulting firms

Application Guidelines and Deadlines

- Detailed application information can be found at <http://gradstudy.rutgers.edu/apply/overview>
- Required application materials
  - Transcript, CV, personal statement, 3 recommendation letters
  - TOEFL and GRE test scores
- Application deadlines for international students
  - Fall 2015 enrollment (application is due on February 1, 2015)

Applications will be reviewed on a rolling basis (first come, first review). The interested applicant may contact Professor Xiang Liu via email <xiang.liu@rutgers.edu>, attaching his/her CV and transcripts. However, the final decision will not be made until the applicant completes official application process through Rutgers University.