Professor's Name: Liu Aihua

Referrer Title: Associate Professor

Recommender Research Field: English Teaching, Intercultural Communication

Recommender's Work Unit: Harbin Institute of Technology, College of Foreign Chinese.

Recommended name: Pelly Maiden Lodompui (佩里) (Kenyan)

Specialty applied by the referee: Master's Degree in Civil Engineering,

Dear Committee members,

At the request of Mr. Lodompui Pelly Maiden, I recommended he continues his postgraduate studies at the School of Civil Engineering at your University.

Mr. Pelly completed his undergraduate civil engineering studies at Harbin Institute of Technology and took my <<英语听力 2>> course in the spring semester of 2021, which is a professional basic course in English and is taught online for international students. The student was very serious in the learning process of this course and impressed me in some aspects.

First of all, I found that as an international student, Mr. Pelly has strong cross-cultural communication skills, can skillfully use English and Chinese to communicate, the English foundation is very good, the learning process is active and frequent communication with the teacher, and very cooperative with the teacher's work, successfully completed the course's homework and tests, and achieved excellent results.

Secondly, the student has a strong independent learning ability, completed the online learning of the university speculative listening MOOC required by my course, and the learning effect is good.

Due to the limitations of online teaching, most of the content needs to be completed independently by himself, and he cannot fully interact and discuss with the teachers and classmates in the classroom, but he still completes the tasks specified in the course very well.

In addition, the student's diligence and rigorous academic character are also very prominent. Due to the time difference, the test and the exam are often in the early morning time, the student is very punctual, on time to hand in the papers, and does very carefully, so the knowledge points can be mastered solidly.

From Pelly, I saw the shadow of a young scholar who was active, cautious, and willing to specialize, hoping that he would have the opportunity to receive a scholarship to continue his studies at your University and realize his academic dreams.

Yours sincerely,
